A TEACHER is believed to have died after being crushed by cattle.

An inquest was being opened today to investigate the death of Philip Whiting, 47, of Heath Farm, Red Lodge.

Mr Whiting, who taught mechanics at Cambridge Regional College, died from multiple traumatic injuries after the incident at Leechmere Farm, off Mildenhall Road, Fordham, on Saturday.

Police said the death had been classified as an "industrial accident" and details had been passed to the Health and Safety Executive.

A Cambridgeshire police spokeswoman said it appeared that Mr Whiting had been trampled by cattle.

Paramedics and the East Anglian Air Ambulance were called to the incident at about 4.15pm but they were unable to save Mr Whiting's life.

An inquest into his death was due to be opened at Wisbech by the deputy assistant coroner.

Work starts on homes

BULLDOZERS have moved in to start demolishing St Andrew's Church Hall in Soham.

The hall has been out of public use for around a decade and was bought by Ambler Homes PLC.

The company had submitted two applications to build 13 properties on the site but they were refused. The site was then sold to local company CJ Murfitt.

In 2009, the firm was given permission to build eight single-storey properties on the site.

Demolition contractors moved onto the site on Monday and began clearing the hall.

Firm to pay £73k after man's death

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editor@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A FARMING and haulage company has been ordered to pay £73,000 after an agricultural worker was crushed to death.

Sam Foley, from Newmarket, was crushed to death after the drawbar on a tipper trailer broke and crashed through the back of the tractor cab where he was sitting.

The 24-year-old, who had been towing manure to a field at Grange Farm, Snetterton, in Norfolk, on July 8, 2007, died at the scene.

On Tuesday, a judge at Norwich Crown Court fined Pearn Wyatt & Son £21,000 after company directors Timothy Wyatt and Jonathan Pearn

Cortege: the tractor procession at Sam Foley's funeral.

Wyatt admitted breaching Section 2(1) of the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974.

It follows a Health and Safety Executive (HSE) investigation which found the tipper trailer had not been adequately maintained and was not suitable for handling solid manure.

The pair were also ordered to pay £52,000 costs.

HSE Inspector Malcolm Crowther said: "This sad death of a young man in his early 20s should never have happened."

"Pearn Wyatt & Son did not carry out their legal duty to ensure the health and safety of their employees and the result was this tragic death."

"The trailer had not been maintained properly and was not suitable for transporting solid manure."

"Farming is one of the country's most dangerous industries with people often working on their own and in remote locations."

"It was down to Pearn Wyatt & Son to ensure the equipment was maintained properly and safe for the farm workers to use – something the company did not do."

Obi keeps an eye on the takings

A BUSKER who sings in a bin has got a guard dog – to protect his takings.

Charlie Cavey, from Buntings Path, Burwell, strums his guitar while squeezed inside a metal litter bin, and was entertaining on the streets during the Cambridge Buskers and Street Performers Festival last week.

Backing him up was Obi, his Jack Russell, who keeps a watchful eye on any coins donated by passers-by.

Charlie said: "I have had problems with people taking money as they don't always realise I'm in the bin and it looks like free cash."

"It's quite a struggle to keep getting in and out of the bin, so now I bring Obi with me. He is really good and just stands on top of the bin and watches people going by."

"He knows I'm inside, so he's not worried and doesn't try to run away."

Charlie added: "He loves listening to me playing, but never attempts to join in."

Charlie is 5ft 9in and started performing in a bin as a joke.

"I saw a man empty a metal rubbish bin one day in the city centre and thought I could fit inside it," he said.

"I managed to squeeze myself in, much to the amusement of all my mates. Then I learnt to play the guitar and a friend reminded me about the bin, so I decided to combine the two."

The Express Bodyshop from ChipsAway Cambridge
Our approach to Customer Service is different.
We've actually got one, for a start.

Question:

What's the industry average amount of time a traditional, major-crash repair bodyshop will keep a car away from its owner if it needs 2 days worth of work?

(Hint: – it's not 2 days. It's not even 3.)

Answer:

26 days.

What other industry would get away with making 16 hours worth of work take over a working month?

But then, traditional, major-crash repair bodyshops have little reason to care about service to car drivers – their work comes from insurance companies.

The Express Bodyshop from ChipsAway Cambridge is different. Our prices mean over 99% of our customers choose not to involve their insurer. And because our work comes from car owners, not claims departments, your experience of our service matters to us.

Our promise to Cambridge's car owners:

"If your car needs one day of work, it'll be ready for you at the end of the day. If it needs two days of work, it'll be ready for you at the end of the next day. Guaranteed."

So simple, so obvious. And unique to us.

And we still guarantee you won't beat our prices.

Fashion in focus at races

A CRUISE to San Francisco is on offer to the best-dressed couple at Newmarket's most glamorous race meeting of the year.

The three-week P&O cruise for two people from Southampton to San Francisco, courtesy of Cambridge-based Premier Travel, is the star prize on the final day of this year's Champagne Lanson July Festival which started yesterday and ends tomorrow.

The holiday includes stops at Madeira and St Lucia as well as the daylight navigation of the Panama Canal and any well-dressed couple can enter for free at the Fashion at the Festival marquee between 11am and 2pm.

All entrants will receive a free copy of their photo.

The prize for the best dressed lady today was a £500 gift pack from the Grand Arcade in Cambridge, with Azendi and Swarovski pendants, a hat from John Lewis and a voucher for the Sanctuary Spa, plus the July Festival sponsors will give the lucky winner a year's supply of Champagne Lanson.

There was also a racecard contest yesterday to win a trip to Abu Dhabi.

New location for bank cash machine

A CASH machine is to be given a new location at a village bank – more than six months after thieves ripped it out. Raiders left the machine in the road after apparently using a vehicle to rip it out of the front of the Barclays branch in Burwell.

The incident in January is believed to have caused thousands of pounds damage. But nothing was stolen. It was the second time that raiders have tried to steal the machine. Now Barclays intends to move the machine into a brick wall at the branch in Parsonage Lane. It has applied for planning permission from East Cambridgeshire District Council to move the machine to one side of the building at the top a ramp. A statement attached to the planning application says the move is intended to improve security.

Warning over thefts from parked cars

POLICE have repeated warnings to drivers after a spate of thefts from parked cars. Hundreds of pounds damage were caused when windows were smashed to steal bags from parked cars. Police have warned drivers not to leave valuable items visible in cars. Two were parked outside Newmarket cemetery in the High Street. A silver-coloured Peugeot 307 was parked there between 11.50am and 12.05pm on Sunday and a silver-coloured Nissan was damaged in the same parking area between 6.20pm and 6.35pm on the same day. A grey Toyota Verso parked at Moulton Paddocks, just outside Newmarket, had a window smashed and a bag containing a mobile phone and purse stolen. Anyone with information about the thefts should call Suffolk police's Crime Investigation Bureau (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers 0800 555111.

Vehicle vandals strike in town

VANDALS damaged two cars in separate incidents. A light blue Peugeot 206 cabriolet was dented and had the windscreen wipers damaged while parked in Grosvenor Yard car park in Newmarket between 7.30pm on Saturday and 9.55am on Sunday. The interior of an unlocked blue Honda Civic was damaged while it was in a car park in Wellington Street, Newmarket, between 6pm last Thursday and 4.15am last Friday. Anyone with information about the incidents should call the Suffolk police Crime Investigation Bureau (CIB) on (01473) 613500 or Pc Neil Van Holland at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100.

Shoplifter in raid on three stores

POLICE are searching for a man who stole suntan lotion and other products worth hundreds of pounds. The shoplifter struck at the Co-op store in Elizabeth Parade, Newmarket, where 40 bottles of Nivea suntan products, worth £400 were stolen. The same man is also believed to have stolen 20 bottles of suntan products from the Co-op in Lakenheath as well as stealing razorblades and painkillers from a convenience store in Rickingham, near Bury St Edmunds. The man is black, thought to be in his late 30s and was wearing a baseball cap and a green jacket under which he hid the items before walking out without paying for them. Anyone with information should contact Suffolk Crime Investigation Bureau (CIB) on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Church 'is one of largest self-build projects in UK'

CHURCH members have started work on a new building which is claimed to be the first of its kind in living memory.

The first structural timbers were cut on Tuesday for the UK's largest new green oak timber-framed building in living memory.

The new church, to be called The Ark, is being built by members of the High Street Church in Isleham. They are doing much of the work themselves to save money on the project which was originally estimated to cost around £3 million.

The church is being built on land in Beck Road, Isleham, and will replace the current High Street building which dates from 1812.

It is claimed as being one of the largest self-build projects in the UK.

A sawmill has been set up on a farm in nearby Chippenham where around 1,000 oak logs will be cut to provide the necessary building material.

The mill is equipped with a massive saw with a 38ft blade, once owned by the Royal Navy in Portsmouth. Paul Hedger, church leader, said: "We found that the region's sawmills could cut beams up to only 25 ft long but our new building needs beams 35-40ft long. We decided the best way to get the wooden members we wanted was to make them ourselves.

"The industrial machinery will allow us to handle and work very large pieces of wood, some up to 3.5 tons in weight and 40 foot long.

"When the wooden frame starts to go together however we will be using joinery techniques that were developed centuries ago.

"When the machines have done their work it will be down to men with woodworking tools to join them together and create a building which when complete will be pleasing to the eye and take care of both the spiritual and community needs of the people who live around it.

"To mark the start of work some of the oldest and youngest members of the church congregation had their names etched into a newly-machined oak beam. They were Alf and Ivy Allars, who will be 90 next year, and Ruth Taylor, 6.

Teen on harm charge

A TEENAGER accused of attacking two police officers while tripping on LSD has been granted bail until his case is heard at Crown court.

Alexander McKendrick, 18, appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates Court on Monday charged with two counts of causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

He is accused of hitting one officer with a chair and biting another, when they visited his family home in St Philips Road in Newmarket in the early hours of Sunday.

The case against McKendrick was sent to Ipswich Crown Court, where he is due to appear for a preliminary hearing on July 15.

He was granted bail on condition that he does not contact his mother or sister, stays away from the family home and lives at an address in Haughley.

Ian Devine, prosecuting, said police were called to the house in Newmarket after reports that McKendrick was attacking his mother and sister.

A police spokesman said two male police officers suffered serious injuries including possible broken bones, wounds and knee, head, facial, arm and back injuries.

Both officers are recovering at home.

Mystery of town's 'missing' councillor

MYSTERY surrounds a councillor's absence from meetings for more than a year.

Cllr Jonathan Richer, a member of Newmarket Town Council, has not attended any meetings since May of last year.

Normal council procedure can result in someone who has not attended meetings for six months to be deemed to have resigned.

But Cllr Richer, 38, the youngest member of the council, wants to resume his duties as a representative of the town's Studlands Park Estate.

He said his absence was not voluntary.

"There are certain things that are covered by confidentiality that I cannot speak about," he said. "I have been incredibly frustrated. I feel the people I'm meant to represent deserve better."

He said he intended to

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

attend the next full council meeting at the end of this month.

"I'm not aware of any law that prevents me from attending a full meeting," said Cllr Richer, who lives in Rous Road, Newmarket.

The town council has refused to give information about meetings at which the issue was discussed without the press or public being present.

An application made by the Weekly News under the Freedom of Information Act was turned down after a further discussion in private by members of the council.

The town clerk, Isabelle Barrett, said in a response to the request: "Further to your request for information submitted under the Freedom of Information Act related to Cllr Richer, I can confirm that the town council has sought the advice of the Suffolk Association of Local Councils' legal department.

"SALC has advised that the meeting notes you have requested were taken during the public exempt sessions and are therefore exempt from the press and public under the Local Government Act 1972 Schedule 12 Part 1."

But a Freedom of Information Act request to Forest Heath District Council showed that its Standards Committee considered, on January 18, a report of an investigation into allegations that he had breached the town council's code of conduct.

The committee accepted the investigating officer's report that there had been no breach of the code relating to treating others with respect, bullying, intimidation and bringing the council into disrepute.

Who will help region's economy develop now?

DEPENDING on your point of view, the East of England Development Agency (EEDA) has either driven the economic success of the Cambridge region, or been a mass of red tape.

The Government has announced it will be scrapped, which means 245 jobs are expected to go at the Histon-based organisation.

In its place, the coalition will allow councils and businesses to form local enterprise partnerships, which will be able to compete for £1 billion of funding, but it is unclear how this will be divided up.

The Regional Growth Fund will be targeted at areas and communities which have been "particularly affected" by public spending cuts.

But Julian Huppert, Cambridge's MP, said he was glad to see the focus moving towards the private sector from the public sector.

He said: "EEDA was not a very successful organisation

The East of England Development Agency's demise has been confirmed – and 245 jobs are expected to be lost at its Histon base. What impact could this have on the region's businesses? CHRIS HAVERGAL reports.

although it did do some positive things. It was an extra level of bureaucracy.

"I'm very pleased that Vince Cable has set aside money to form new local economic partnerships between councils and businesses.

"I hope Cambridge will be able to make a strong bid for that money which will bring much greater benefit for businesses around Cambridge."

EEDA says it has injected more than £86 million into the economies of Cambridgeshire and Peterborough in the last decade. It says it has created more than 4,500 jobs and helped 900 businesses to start and grow.

Cllr John Reynolds, the resources boss at Cambridgeshire County Council, said EEDA had supported many businesses but had not been effective at tackling the great problem of a shortage of skills.

He said: "I think there is great opportunity for the local authorities to join together with business communities to draw down as much funding as we can to support future developments.

"That's the delivery of new jobs, but also of infrastructure to ensure the Cambridge sub-region remains prosperous.

"There will be many challenges though, and I believe the authorities and business communities have to sit down and work out exactly the best way forward as soon as possible so the application can be made for funding."

Cllr Reynolds said it was important Cambridgeshire got the funding to allow its high-tech firms to remain world leaders.

EEDA has said it will ensure there is a "smooth and professional transition to new economic development arrangements".

Prof Will Pope, its chairman, warned some businesses might lose out because of the closure.

He said: "EEDA is an effective and efficient organisation and our achievements have been independently evaluated by the National Audit Office – it says we are a strong-performing organisation.

"The budget reductions this year mean that EEDA will have to make some difficult decisions on reducing, delaying and withdrawing funding from a range of projects.

"We will be working with those projects affected by reductions over the coming weeks."

A White Paper is expected this summer, giving more details on future economic development arrangements.

Eric Pickles, the Communities Secretary, said: "By giving up central control we will put democratic accountability back into the local economy making it responsive to the needs of local business and local people.

"If you want to rebuild a fragile national economy you don't strangle business with red tape and let bloated regional quangos make all the decisions."

He added: "The solution needs to be local – we know that when councils and local business work hand in hand they can drive economic growth together and places can be transformed.

"Local enterprise partnerships are central to this vision which is why we are asking them what they need."

What EEDA says it's done for us –

EEDA says it has injected £86 million into the economies of Cambridgeshire and Peterborough over the last decade, including:

- 4,514 jobs created or safeguarded
- 16,393 people with improved skills
- 896 businesses helped to start and grow
- 5,017 business performance improvements
- 5,467 people supported into employment
- 107 hectares of brownfield land reclaimed
- £155 million leveraged in public and private investment

Man beat his partner

Festive tree on the move

WHILE the region has basked in some of the hottest weather of the year, councillors have been discussing what to do with their Christmas tree.

Members of Newmarket Town Council have agreed to spend around £4,600 so that the town's tree, donated by Elveden Farms, can be moved to a new location this December.

The tree has previously been erected at Rutland Hill in the High Street. Now the town council has agreed that from this year it will be sited on the paved area next to the Clocktower.

They had hoped to move the tree last Christmas, following the completion of the paving work as part of the Clocktower junction revamp. But the necessary approvals for the work could not be obtained in time.

Now the council has agreed to spend nearly £4,000, plus VAT, for a hole to be dug to slot the tree in each year and run electrical connections for the lights.

injuries in the incident.

A JEALOUS man who beat his partner after she received text messages from another man has been ordered to attend a domestic abuse programme.

Takunda Sisimayi, 21, admitted a charge of assault when he appeared before magistrates at Bury St Edmunds on Monday.

He was made the subject of a two-year community order, including supervision, with a condition that he attends an intervention domestic abuse programme.

Ian Devine, prosecuting, said Sisimayi had no previous convictions, but had received two previous cautions this year for domestic incidents.

There was no statement from his former partner, but he had been prosecuted on the basis of admissions he made in interview.

The court heard that on May 24, police were called to his address at The Rookery, Newmarket, after a friend of the victim was concerned when there was no answer to text messages.

The woman had some signs of injury, but did not want to pursue a complaint.

After arrest, Sisimayi said there had been an argument and he had pushed the woman across the room, then scuffled with her on the floor.

Magistrates were shown photographs which showed that both the victim and the defendant had suffered Kieron Davies, defending, said it had been a volatile relationship and his client would not have ended up in court were it not for the information he had volunteered in interview.

The couple have a two-year-old son and Sisimayi is the sole carer for him.

Mr Davies said: "Clearly it is a relationship of a volatile nature.

"He understands the consequence of any further behaviour like this might involve social services and could have consequences in relation to his young child.

"He wants the relationship to continue, mainly for the sake of their son."

Zip wire popular with all ages

NEW play equipment costing more than £11,600 has been officially opened.

The zip wire and trim trail installed in the playground at Cheveley were at the top of a wish list when local youngsters were asked what they would like.

But the zip wire can be used by all ages.

Elaine Taylor, the parish clerk, said: "Even a lady of 78 has gone down it and she had a great time."

The parish council received more than £7,000 from East Cambridgeshire District Council's redistribution of a larger pot of Big Lottery funding which is being shared by a number of villages in the district.

An extra £4,500 was put in by the parish council to enable the inclusion of the wooden trim trail equipment.

Mrs Taylor said: "The feedback we have had has been brilliant. It seems to be very well used – even by people who don't have children. We wanted to gather together the widest age-range possible."

The new equipment, on the village recreation ground off the High Street, was officially unveiled when children from the village primary school held their annual sports day on the recreation ground.

School to celebrate birthday with circus

A VILLAGE school will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a circus show.

Pupils at Kettlefields primary school, between Dullingham and Stetchworth, will be able to try circus skills with performers from Happy Circus who will be putting on a show at the school on Thursday, July 15.

"We decided to have something different to celebrate the anniversary," said Nicola Barrett, from the school's parent, teacher and friends organisation.

The event is open to visitors and tickets, price £28 for a family of four, £7.50 for individual adults and £5 concessions, are available at circustickets@btinternet.com

Will you bring justice back?

Sir, I would like to ask the new Cambridgeshire Chief Constable in waiting, Simon Parr, a question. Sir, how important is justice to you? 'Justice' used to be the stuff laws were built around, they complemented each other, walked hand in hand. Most of us were born with 'justice' in our hearts, how about you Simon? Do you wake every morning and thank God that 'justice' is still living and breathing inside you? Do you carry it around with you during the day, referring to it when you make decisions big and small? Justice says if you knowingly, willingly, intentionally hurt any person, or damage their property, and it is proved within reasonable doubt, then you are guilty as charged and subject to appropriate punishment. When New Labour came into power, this incontrovertible precept was cancelled. It was a luxury they could not afford. Justice doesn't fill 'black holes,' finance the EU, feed the world, so they supplanted justice with political economic "law". This read, if there is a million to one chance that by driving at a speed exceeding the speed limit, or having alcohol in your blood, exceeding a certain limit, then you are guilty as charged. No evidence of death, injury, damage or even 'interaction' is necessary. This victimless crime has criminalised more than two million people, devastating thousands of lives, including suicides and heart attacks. Not one had hurt a soul. The sins of New Labour live on, perhaps until we are all destroyed. Or perhaps until someone like you Simon, restarts the justice ball rolling. Are you our saviour?

Rent would pay for the loos

Sir, I was reading this week's Weekly News (July 1) and came across the article on Page 5 regarding the old coach house being up for rent and Jacquie Jones wanting it for three months rent free for an arts centre. Why I asked myself when three months rent amounts to £6,375? £6,375 will more than pay for the £6,000 required to cover the costs of temporary toilets required in the memorial gardens which are being installed as a cost-saving measure to the tune of £40,000 (see the article on Page 2) Why I asked myself when on page 4 I read that the Cambridgeshire police are having to trim front line forces to the tune of £1.2m. Why I asked myself when on Page 5 I read that Suffolk police are having to trim £1.14m from their budget. I feel that no more people would visit this centre than already visit the horse racing museum where the true historical value of Newmarket can be found. If we can afford to give up £6,375

This week's Memories photograph, taken from our archives, shows a couple with babies. Do you know who they are? Can you tell us where or when the picture was taken? We welcome your letters or emails. Send your recollections to: Memories,

■ Last week's picture, from our archives, showed an auction in progress at Newmarket Hospital and was taken in March, 1987. Mary Jacobs, of Stretton Avenue, Newmarket, writes: "The photo has Nurse Edgar, the past district nurse from Cheveley, in the centre holding the scarf. The lady on the right standing with a hat and the man behind her are my mother and father-in-law Eric and Audrey Jacobs, from Burwell, and the child peeping from behind the lady by the table is Terry Jacobs, I believe."

Another reader e-mailed us to say they thought the man on the left with his arm raised was Richard Ransome and his brother Michael was on the right. If you can shed any more light on this picture, email us at editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk 643262

Sir, I write in support of artist Jacquie Jones who has done a good deal for the town and the horse racing world. The lady is working hard to promote the world of art to others and also does good charity work. Jacquie is a great asset to the town. So come on Newmarket, back the lady! She is trying to help others. The historic coach house has been empty for about five years, so let's back the lady on this matter.

Drugs charge man to be sent for trial

A MAN accused of possessing and supplying cannabis is to be sent for trial at Cambridge Crown Court. Peter Fordham, 20, faces four charges in total, two of supplying a Class B drug, one of possession of a Class B drug with intent to supply and another of possession of a Class B drug.

The crown prosecution service says a combination of cannabis plants and the drug itself were found at Fordham's home, with a combined street value of around £5,000.

Fordham, of Orchard Way, Burwell, appeared at Ely Magistrates' Court last Thursday, where he entered no plea to all four charges. Magistrates ordered a committal hearing to be held at Ely Magistrates' Court on August 12 when the case will be sent to the Crown court. Fordham was released on unconditional bail.

Crews called to rescue foal

A RESCUE was launched after a foal got stuck in a stream.

The incident happened in a stream on Qua Fen Common, Soham, at 7.05am on Saturday.

One crew from the town, another crew from Cambridge and a rescue vehicle from Cambridge were called after the foal, which was only a few days old, got stuck.

Firefighters managed to rescue the animal and it was left in the care of a vet. The rescue took around 90 minutes.

Thieves take machinery

AN expensive piece of machinery has been stolen from a roadside.

The yellow Bob Cat 246 skid steer was left on the side of the B1104 Prickwillow Road, Soham, when thieves stole it. It was left overnight on Tuesday, June 29, ready for builders to use the next day.

The machine is similar to a mini digger.

Anyone with any information should call police on 0345 4564564.

Proud moment: Liza Goddard, Viva Youth Theatre president, presents the Dan Schumann Shield for Dedication and Commitment to Jessica Theobald.

Stars come out for Viva's awards bash

MEDALS and shields were handed out when budding actors, dancers and musicians were rewarded for their success.

Award-winning Soham-based Viva Youth Theatre held its annual awards ceremony last week, which saw hundreds of people enjoy some red carpet glamour.

South East Cambridgeshire MP Jim Paice was there to present an award, as was Viva's presidents Liza Goddard and Mike Fenton Stevens.

Members, friends and volunteers attended the event at The Brook.

Among the award winners were Jessica Theobald, who won the Dan Schumann Shield for Dedication and Commitment, Daniel Bell who scooped the Sir John Baird Award for Actor of the Year and Ashley Gilmour who won the Lady Baird Award for Singer of the Year.

Mr Schumann, who founded Viva in 1997, said: "This year's ceremony was a great success, with literally hundreds of members, friends and volunteers, both old and new, coming to celebrate Viva's many successes this year.

"All of the award winners and nominees were thrilled and it was very pleasing to see so many people enjoying the evening."

Judge the place yourself – call

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A JUDGE who said a growing village "sounded like an awfully rough place" has been invited to visit it to see what it is like.

District Judge David Cooper made the comment about Red Lodge when village resident Omar Parfett, 19, appeared before him for using behaviour likely to cause harassment, alarm or distress.

Parfett had threatened to rape a woman and get others to beat her up. His solicitor told the judge that the incident happened after a brick was thrown through his mother's window.

Judge Cooper made the comment before giving Parfett a suspended 12-week prison sentence.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, who represents Red Lodge on Suffolk County Council and Forest Heath

District Council, said: "I'm quite shocked. This is not the image I would like to portray for Red Lodge.

"I would like to invite Judge Cooper to visit Red Lodge and I'm more than happy to show him round."

She said she accepted there were "many issues" to be resolved with the expansion of the village where 1,500 new homes are being built.

"I have lived here for 15 years and I don't consider it an 'awfully rough place.' The judge's comments are disappointing.

"I think Red Lodge is working very hard to put over a positive image." She said crime statistics did not bear out the comment.

■ The local police safer neighbourhood team together with youth groups, church groups and US Air Force personnel are due to stage a litter pick in the village on Saturday after litter was highlighted as a problem in a survey of 170 residents.

Sgt Phil Payne, from Mildenhall Safer Neighbourhood Team, said: "We have listened to the issue the local community have identified and involved the help of partnership agencies to help us solve it.

"This litter pick is a step in encouraging people to take pride in the area they live so that the next time they drop a piece of litter they stop, think and put it in the bin instead. If each resident does their part then the area will remain clean for everyone to use in the future."

The litter pick will start from the pavilion car park on the Kings Warren estate at midday.

Youngsters go for gold at inter-school games series

YOUNGSTERS took part in an Olympic-style opening ceremony for an inter-school games series. Primary schools in Newmarket took part in the event at Newmarket College which offered gold, silver and bronze medals in each of seven categories. Although the children took part in a series of events including golf, cricket, throwing, catching and running, they were judged on qualities like friendship, perseverance, respect and excellence. The town's All Saints Primary School amassed the biggest medal haul and was awarded the overall trophy. Rachel Bacon, a teacher at All Saints, said: "The children were ecstatic." More than 300 children aged between seven and nine took part in the games. The opening ceremony included dancing, singing and a rap by the All Saints pupils. Events for pupils aged 11-14 were run at the College on Saturday. Newmarket Town Council, which is supporting events leading up to the 2012

Olympics, has reported difficulties in organising adult competitions after Sport England refused a grant. But other sources of funding are being sought. The town council has put £1,000 in an Olympic legacy fund which could be used next

Plea to help form 'vision'

VISITORS to Newmarket Carnival will be invited to complete a 10-page questionnaire. The town council will be asking visitors to the annual carnival how they would like to see the town develop in future. Results of the consultation, which will also include seeking the views of shopkeepers, businesses and organisations in the town, will go towards preparing a "vision" which could be adopted as planning guidance. There will also be a random mail shot to a number of households. The consultation follows the publication last year by Bill Gredley, developer and racehorse owner, of his "vision" for the town which included making the High Street virtually traffic-free. Cllr Glenn Edge, who chairs the town council's Vision Working Group, said: "Since the New Year, the working group has formulated its plans and has recognised that, to have the backing of the town's residents, it must consult as widely as possible with the local community. "In order to do so, we have devised a questionnaire which seeks views on various aspects of the town centre including transport, appearance, the market and other aspects." The questionnaire also asks about the future of the horseracing industry and the multi-million pound Home of Horseracing tourism project. Councillors will be inviting visitors to the carnival, at the town's Rowley Mile racecourse on Saturday to fill in the questionnaire. Residents can also obtain a copy of the questionnaire from the town council offices in the Memorial Hall or download it from the council's website. The closing date for questionnaire is September 1 and the town council is hoping to publish its vision by April next year.

Builders help to teach pupils safety message

Hunt for Lotto winner

PUPILS at a school which is undergoing major building work have been given a lesson in site safety by the construction company.

Morgan Sindall, the contractor for the £2.7 million scheme to extend and refurbish Ditton Lodge primary school in Newmarket sent health and safety advisor Dave Bickel to explain why they needed to keep away from building work.

Mr Bickel said: "Allowing the children to try on some of the health and safety equipment is a fun way of getting across an extremely serious message."

"It's vital that we hold events like these to reinforce the fact that although construction sites might look like a fantastic place to go and have an adventure, they are potentially extremely dangerous places."

"They are definitely not playgrounds."

Angela Finn, the head teacher, said: "We are so excited about our school expansion."

"The opportunities for learning as our building works develop are enhanced by the close liaison the school has with the contractors."

"Children are discovering so much by watching the processes and equipment as the school grows. The completed building will enable us to deliver outstanding and innovative provision in a stimulating learning environment."

The work is due to be completed by next spring.

Morgan Sindall is one of seven firms carrying out building projects for Cambridgeshire County Council under a seven-year education building programme which is worth more than £200 million.

Safety first: Morgan Sindall's lead safety, health and environmental advisor Dave Bickel teaches Ditton Lodge Community First School pupils Dylan Coyle, 6, and Katie Bowen, 5, about staying safe around building sites.

A LOTTO prize of £53,948 has yet to be claimed in the Borough of St Edmundsbury.

National Lottery players are being urged to check and double-check their tickets for the chance to claim this life-enhancing prize in time.

The search is now on to find the owner of the winning ticket, bought in the Borough of Edmundsbury, who matched five numbers and the bonus ball in the Lotto draw on Saturday, June 19.

The winning Lotto numbers on that date were 34, 37, 39, 41, 42, 47 and the bonus ball was 45. The lucky ticket-holder has until 5.30pm on Thursday, December 16, to make their claim.

A National Lottery spokesperson said: "We're desperate to find this mystery ticket-holder and unite them with their winnings – this amazing prize could really make a huge difference to somebody's life. We're urging everyone to check their old tickets again or look anywhere a missing ticket could be hiding."

Three little miracles mum thought would never arrive

Threesome: Nathalie with identical twins Isobel and Aurelia, and their sister Daria who makes up the triplets, and also pictured opposite.

Pictures: Duncan Lamont 653707/704

SITTING on the floor, one baby in the crook of each arm and a third on her lap, new mum Nathalie Fuller is beaming with pride.

She is showing off her beautiful triplets – identical twins Isobel and Aurelia, and their sister Daria. And the 39-year-old clearly couldn't be happier.

"I just love them so much," she says, bending to kiss Aurelia on the top of her downy little head. "I can't really put it into words... I think they're amazing. Don't get me wrong, having triplets is no walk in the park: I've forgotten what sleep is; I never ever feel 100 per cent awake! But I wouldn't be without them, not for a second."

The triplets are among the thousands of babies born via IVF. In Vitro Fertilisation, in the UK each and every year. Statistics show that more and more mothers are undergoing the infertility treatment: 36,861 women had IVF in Britain in 2007, an increase of 5.8% on the previous year, resulting in more than 13,000 births.

"Quite a lot of my friends have had problems with fertility," adds Nathalie. "It might be

Nathalie Fuller opted for IVF treatment and now has her hands full with triplets – ALICE RYAN reports on how the new mum coped with pregnancy and their early arrival because women are leaving it later to have a family... Not that I intended to leave it until I was 38; I was just waiting for Mr Right – and I didn't meet him until five years ago."

Nathalie, head of ICT at a local secondary school, says she always wanted to have children. "When I was little I used to say I wanted to have garden parties and puppies when I grew up," laughs Nathalie. "What I really meant was that I wanted a nice family."

Passionate about teaching, Nathalie says she was happy to focus on her career until, in 2005, she met Richard, now her husband.

He already has two kids from a previous relationship, now in their teens, and had opted for vasectomy surgery; after much discussion, he had a reversal operation but, sadly, it was not a success.

"There were times when I wondered if I'd ever have children," admits Nathalie, who moved to Longstanton, from Hertfordshire, to be with Richard. "But then we decided to go for IVF. They gave us an 18 per cent chance of success but, amazingly, it worked first time."

Because Richard already had children, the couple weren't eligible to receive IVF – a process which involves egg cells being fertilised by sperm outside the womb, in vitro (in glass) – on the NHS.

Deciding to pay for private treatment instead, Nathalie admits there were some tough times: in the run-up to the harvesting of her eggs, she was prescribed intensive hormone therapy which made her feel "really grotty".

Miraculously, two of four embryos successfully implanted in Nathalie's womb. But it wasn't until the first scan that Nathalie knew she was pregnant – with not one, not two, but three babies...

"You can get this thing called a 'chemical pregnancy'," she explains. "So, until the scan, I wasn't sure I was actually pregnant. When they found one heartbeat, I was absolutely elated; when they found a second, I couldn't believe it."

"The guy carried on looking and I said 'You're not expecting to find a third one?' and he said 'You'd be surprised'... I made a little video on my iPhone and, after the third heartbeat was found, you can hear me saying 'Oh my word! Oh my word!' then some nervous laughter..."

Both the implanted embryos had developed. And, during the early stages, one had divided into two – resulting in a set of identical twins.

Because multiple births can be risky, especially in a mum of 38, doctors offered to do a foetal reduction: removing one of the foetuses, to lessen the strain on both mum and remaining babies. Nathalie and Richard decided the reduction was not for them. "The thought of it really upset me, to be honest," says Nathalie.

Preparing for the triplets' arrival was, remembers Nathalie, a really exciting time. But the pregnancy wasn't without its problems. During the first trimester, Nathalie says she was "totally exhausted – struggling to stay awake – and losing weight all the time; with triplets, you're supposed to get huge really quickly”.

Then, after a child ran into her at school, Nathalie developed sharp stomach pains. “I did panic,” she says. “I thought I was going to lose the babies. All kinds of terrifying scenarios went through my head. I was devastated.”

Medics confirmed that all three babies were fit and well, but they couldn’t find out what was wrong with Nathalie, who continued to suffer bouts of agonising pain throughout the pregnancy.

“I practically lived in Addenbrooke’s from week 20 onwards,” adds Nathalie. “I spent an awful lot of time in hospital. And I had an awful lot of sleepless nights.”

Nathalie had regular check-ups and, around week 24, tests showed that Daria, the non-identical triplet, had stopped growing; a condition called ‘no end diastolic flow’ had developed, a problem with the flow of blood from placenta to baby, via the umbilical artery. That was, remembers Nathalie, a terrifying time.

On the day Nathalie went into labour, she’d been given permission to leave the ward for a few hours – to go to the cinema with Richard. But, before she left, Nathalie developed stomach pains yet again. “I thought it was probably just the normal stomach pains again – or wind,” she laughs. “I was worried I might be wasting everyone’s time, but I thought I should just get it checked out...”

It turned out that Nathalie was having palpable contractions – and she was told the triplets would arrive within the day, almost 11 weeks early.

Given an epidural, Nathalie admits the actual delivery was quite nerve-racking. “The room was absolutely full of people, including the team from neonatal intensive care,” she remembers.

As soon as the babies were delivered, they were placed in special mobile incubators, known as ‘pandas’. “I couldn’t really see them,” continues Nathalie. “They were tiny: Aurelia was 2lb 14oz, Isobel was 2lb 13oz, and Daria was only 1lb 13oz.”

Although the new parents were elated their daughters had arrived safely, Nathalie describes the following six weeks as “a nightmare”. While she was sent home, all three babies had to remain in intensive care.

“It was like being a mummy without being a mummy, if that makes sense,” Nathalie adds. “And then we were told the girls would have to be split up: Aurelia and Isobel were sent to a slightly lower-dependency unit at West Suffolk Hospital in Bury St Edmunds, and Daria stayed in Addenbrooke’s.”

After all she’d been through, all the ups and downs, Nathalie admits that was the straw that broke the camel’s back. “I had a meltdown,” she remembers. “I was crying because I didn’t like the idea of separating them, it seemed wrong. And I knew the importance of giving them my breast milk – for their immunity and their development – and I could see no way of being able to feed them all...”

Thanks to a supportive and quick-thinking nurse – Nathalie says the whole team at both Addenbrooke’s and West Suffolk were brilliant – a solution was soon found. The nurse contacted breast pump specialists Medela, who agreed to loan Nathalie a hospital grade pump. It was, she says, a lifeline.

“Although Daria was tiny, she was incredibly strong,” continues the proud mum. “They tried to put her on a ventilator, but she just pulled it out. All the girls had various infections though, which was scary; at one point, we thought Aurelia had meningitis.”

After the babies were born, Nathalie was diagnosed with gallstones; it turns out they were the cause of her continual stomach ache during the pregnancy.

As soon as the triplets – or ‘twiglets’, as Nathalie nicknamed them – were strong enough, some six weeks after birth, they were allowed home. Looking after three babies is no mean feat: Nathalie has developed a strict feeding rota and a spreadsheet system, recording each mealtime, nappy changes and so on. It’s also an expensive business; as well as needing three of everything, like Moses baskets, Nathalie and Richard had to invest in a bigger car – a people carrier.

Help from a local twins group, a baby group and Sure Start, the children’s centre, has, adds Nathalie, been invaluable, along with regular visits from her mum. With Richard busy at work (an engineer by trade, he’s currently retraining as a teacher) Nathalie says a weekly visit from a Sure Start volunteer has been a godsend.

Each wearing a pretty dress in palest blue, Nathalie lies all three of her girls down on a super-soft duvet spread out across her sitting room floor. Settling each baby in turn – rubbing a tummy, stroking a head, popping a dummy back in – it’s evident Nathalie loves being a mum.

“I can’t get over how amazing they are,” she adds. “They’re already starting to develop their own little personalities: Daria’s the quietest, Isobel’s the most laid back and Aurelia makes the most noise... I just think they’re little miracles, to be honest.”

Sale? What’s that then?

At You’re Furnished, we don’t have sales. There’s no need. Our prices are consistently low all year round – up to half what you’d pay for the same furniture in high street stores. And always lower than their sale prices. Both of our warehouses have a huge range of leather and fabric sofas as well as dining and bedroom furniture in a huge variety of wood finishes. Selling high volumes and being located in modest buildings means huge cost savings for our customers.

Which is why, like us, they don’t bother with sales.

Keep a look out for sporting opportunities this summer

Hello again . . . and what beautiful weather we've been having – it's been perfect for the tennis and football fans among us! It is also great weather for volunteering in an outdoors role, hence the following.

We have some new organisations and opportunities available now, including The Animal Health Trust which is looking for volunteers to help with listed building maintenance, for those of you with an interest in conservation, heritage and architecture, D.I.Y and building to help with their 140 acres of garden, including orchards and a sunken garden, which could involve basic gardening through to landscaping – both excellent roles if your interest lies in these areas or if you're looking for work experience and C.V. building.

We are also hoping to link up with some sporting groups soon, so if you want to get active over summer and are interested in a sporting role, again either as a social role for yourself or to gain work experience, etc, then keep your eyes open over the following weeks for an update in this article, or give me a call on (01638) 608048, or email jane@thevoluntarynetwork.org for more information.

Here at the volunteer centre we are still busy; despite the good weather and people being on holiday there are still approximately five new people coming in each week to volunteer, which is great.

In this month's column, Jane Carter, from The Voluntary Network, says new volunteers keep on coming through their doors.

We recently held a coffee afternoon here at the volunteer centre as part of National Volunteers Week which was well attended by existing volunteers as well as those interested in more information.

The aim of the afternoon was to say thank you and show appreciation to all volunteers who have given their time, skills, effort and friendship to help others

So, to all volunteers, old and new, from us here at the volunteer centre as well as the many groups, charities, organisations and individuals whose lives you benefit . . .

A BIG THANK YOU!

Prizes on offer for gardeners

THE town's top gardeners are being invited to enter the annual Newmarket in Bloom competitions when they can show off their front gardens, hanging baskets and planters.

Any gardens or floral feature which is visible from the public road can be considered by the judges in the free-to-enter contest run by the Newmarket in Bloom committee.

The long-running contest offers prizes of garden vouchers as well as trophies to the top award winners.

Pubs, hotels, businesses and other companies can also take part.

The closing date is Friday, July 23, and entries should be sent to Paul Stearn, 21 Elizabeth Avenue, Newmarket CB8 0DJ.

Bus is hit by object thrown from bridge

CHILDREN escaped injury when an object thrown from a bridge over a busy road hit a mirror of their single-decker bus.

Police have condemned those responsible and have said they will be dealt with "firmly".

The incident happened as the bus, which was travelling on the A11, passed under a bridge at Red Lodge.

One of the exterior mirrors on the white Volvo bus was smashed by the unknown object.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said: "This incident had the potential to cause a road traffic collision and in turn serious injury or damage."

"The bus was carrying school children and it is fortunate that no-one was hurt and only the glass in the wing mirror was damaged. Such behaviour is extremely irresponsible, throwing any item into traffic puts lives at risk, and anyone found to be doing so will be firmly dealt with."

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened at around 4.30pm on Wednesday last week should call Sgt Phil Payne, of the Mildenhall Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Man on sex charge

A MAN charged with arranging/facilitating the commission of a child sex offence is to stand trial at Crown court. Turon Ali, 25, is accused of committing the offence under the Sexual Offence Act 2003 but has pleaded not guilty to the charge. Ali, of Station Road, Kennett, appeared at Ely Magistrates' Court last Thursday, where the bench committed the case to Cambridge Crown Court. His trial will start on July 30 and he was released on conditional bail not to contact the victim.

Woman bailed

A WOMAN arrested on suspicion of drink-driving has been released on bail. The 49-year-old from Hertfordshire was arrested after police stopped a car in Moulton Road, Newmarket, on the evening of Thursday, June 17. She has been released on bail to return to Bury St Edmunds police station on July 26.

Motorist hurt

ONE motorist was slightly injured in a two-vehicle crash in Soham. The incident happened on the A1123 Military Road at 6.40am last Friday, just west of the A142. The road was partially blocked in both directions before the vehicles were recovered.

Rick to roll out the hits at Audley End

SHOULDER pads, leggings, The A Team – just when we thought we were shot of them, they're all making a serious comeback.

It may be 2010, a brand-new decade of novelty and promise, but somehow, like DJ Alex Drake, we seem to have found ourselves transported back to the 1980s.

Nowhere is this present nostalgia for decades past more apparent than in the charts. Retro bands are regrouping faster than you can say Sherbert Fountain, ready to relive some memories and re-charm wistful fans.

After more than 15 years of living the quiet life in London with his family, 80s pop icon Rick Astley has found himself back in the spotlight once more with a new single and a string of live dates.

When we chat, Rick has just returned from supporting none other than Peter Kay as part of the comic's Tour That Doesn't Tour.

"It was pretty bonkers, but really good fun," says Rick, in his friendly, Lancashire accent. "He's a very interesting character but he's unbelievably bright. He's really on the ball."

This latest taste of touring seems to suit family man Rick, who, rather than opt for wild after-gig parties, was happy to turn in after his set and spend a leisurely night in with a takeaway.

"It was a luxury way to do it really," he says. "I rented myself a nice apartment in Manchester so I could just potter over to the venue, do a little sound check, and because I was opening I was finished by 8 o'clock. It was like, have a nice glass of wine, a bit of pizza, put a movie on... It was a nice way to do things," he smiles.

As he joins a host of fellow 80s stars to launch this year's Audley End Picnic Concerts, the chart veteran talks to JENNIFER SHELTON about pop, Peter Kay and THAT internet campaign

Since the spectacular return of Take That in 2006, there have been plenty of familiar faces returning to the music scene. So what prompted Rick to get back into the business?

"I think I stumbled into it to a great degree. I'd retired, packed it in. I wasn't going to do this ever again. Then I got an offer to just go out and sing again, to see if I liked it – and I really enjoyed it. I loved being back on stage. I played some really small venues and it felt – real.

"I also felt that enough time had past [since his chart time in the 80s] so that I could enjoy it without it being naff. And there was a time when I would've thought it was naff just to go and revisit everything, whereas now I think it's so far removed that it's nostalgic."

Rick harbours plenty of fond memories of the 80s, including topping the charts with his first single, Never Gonna Give You Up, so he's as happy as anyone to embrace this trend for reigniting the past.

"I think that's just what happens," he continues. "I'm sure we're going to get that with the 90s, when music changed massively because of the whole rave culture and clubbing. I think you need to get a couple of decades away from something before it starts to be cool again."

"I've got an 18 year-old daughter and half the time I think she's just stepped out of an 80s video, with the way she dresses and everything. And all her friends are the same."

How does she feel about her old man's pop career? Rick chuckles, then says, seriously: "Like every daughter or son should be, she's 50 per cent highly embarrassed of her dad, and 50 per cent proud. I think that's a good sort of level."

Rick's new single, Lights Out, hit the charts early last month. His first release in nearly 17 years, it seems to signal a move away from the poppy numbers he's best known for to more soulful, sensitive ground. Yet despite what could be called a comeback hit, Rick is taking a distinctly casual approach to the future.

"I think if things go ok I think I'll do an album. But if we don't get any joy I'll just concentrate on live gigs, like the open air ones. I see it as a bit of fun. I'm taking it one week at a time."

Rick's summer line-up includes joining Kim Wilde, Howard Jones and T'Pau for Back to the 80s at the first of this year's Cambridge News-sponsored Audley End Picnic Concerts later this month. He will be playing a mix of hits during his stint on stage – so expect all your 80s favourites – in a concert that will culminate with Audley End's traditional firework spectacular.

"All the outdoor summer gigs are usually really good fun, so I'm sure it'll be great."

■ Back to the 80s, Audley End House, Saffron Walden, Saturday, July 17 at 7.30pm. Tickets £31, £29.50. Visit www.picnicconcerts.com

Back on tour: 80s pop star Rick Astley.

Also rolling back the decades at Audley End on July 17...

● Singer-songwriter Howard Jones, best known for hits New Song and What Is Love?, became one of the defining figures of mid 80s synthpop. He recently released a new album, Ordinary Heroes, which he toured in the UK last year.

● Kim Wilde achieved instant success with her debut single, Kids in America, which hit the number two spot in 1981. The daughter of 60s hitmaker Marty Wilde, Kim clocked up a total of 17 UK Top 40 hit singles throughout the decade.

After settling down to have a family, the singer rekindled her love of gardening and went on to act as a designer for Channel 4's Better Gardens. Hopefully she'll be impressed with the grounds at Audley End.

● Named after a Vulcan priestess in Star Trek, T'Pau made waves in the UK and the US during the 80s. The ballad China in Your Hand spent five weeks at number one in the UK charts, and frontwoman Carol Decker continues to tour as well as make the occasional appearance on TV panel shows.

Poor condition planting tips from TV's gardening guru

I caught up with TV gardening guru Alan Titchmarsh recently, who has been busy covering the horticultural show circuit offering advice to the public on all-weather plants which will grow in the worst conditions.

At BBC Gardeners' World Live in Birmingham, he started on the subject of clay.

Those with clay soil often despair that they're unable to dig it in during really wet weather when it becomes so sticky and gluey it resembles a quagmire, while at the first sign of hot weather it goes as hard as rock and even the strongest gardener won't be able to get a fork into it.

Of course, you can improve heavy clay soil by digging in as much well-rotted organic matter as you can and adding plenty of gritty horticultural sand to help drainage. Clay soil doesn't drain easily and tends to become waterlogged in persistent wet weather.

Alan, however, says clay isn't all bad and that as a general rule don't try to fight the conditions,

by Hannah Stephenson

but make the most of plants that are happy growing in your type of soil.

Clay particles hold in nutrients, so the more clay and humus there is in the soil, the more nutrients it can hold. This means that clay is actually among the most fertile of soils.

He says: "Willows love damp earth and clay. Salix daphnoides (Violet Willow) can be grown like dogwood. Chop it down in February and it will grow new stems, providing winter colour and foliage in spring. It's fast growing and will reach 8ft in each season."

Other great shrubs Alan recommends for clay include Viburnum 'Pragense', a rounded evergreen type with narrow, textured leaves and clusters of pink buds which open to white flowers in late spring. Euphorbias, spiraeas, rodgersias and, of course, roses, will all thrive in clay soil.

"There's the wonderful Rosa rugosa – the flowers look like crepe paper, don't get mildew or blackspot, make waist-high informal hedges and have hips following the flowers," Alan adds.

Other plants which do well in clay soils include Choisya ternata (Mexican orange blossom), Hydrangea paniculata, Kerria japonica, Mahonia x media 'Charity' and Weigela 'Kosteriana Variegata'.

While clay may be one problem, shade is another, but there are plants which will survive the most inhospitable situations. Hostas love shade and you can buy copper collars to place around them to prevent slugs and snails chomping their way through the young shoots.

Another exotic-looking plant which loves shade and needs relatively little maintenance, says Alan, is the fuchsia, with its bold, glossy leaves. If the frost catches it, just chop off the damaged leaves and strong new growth should soon appear.

If you have dry shade, look no further than Acanthus mollis, commonly known as bear's breech, a perennial which will cope well with drought and poor soils.

"It's an architectural beauty with towering, stiff spikes of purple-hooded, white or pink flowers above good, glossy green leaves," Alan adds.

Some bamboos will also thrive in shade, but make sure if you have limited space you buy the clump-forming varieties rather than those which spread rampantly and are then extremely difficult to dig up.

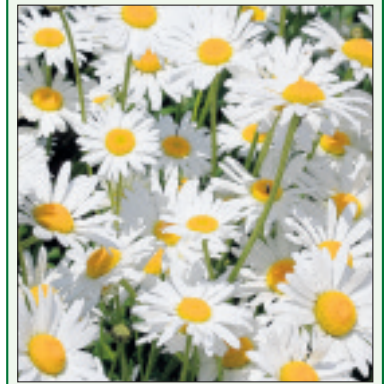

Phyllostachys nigra, black bamboo, which reaches a height of 5m (16ft), is a brilliant clump-forming type – with arching canes which turn black after a couple of years – and looks wonderful in a modern, minimalist setting. It can also be grown in large containers if they are not allowed to dry out, but needs some direct sunlight to ripen the canes fully.

Blue bamboo, Himalayacalamus hookerianus 'Himalaya Blue', which grows to 6m, is perfect for smaller gardens, adding tall interest to shady areas, with its blue-green stems.

Look carefully and you will find a wider range of all-weather plants than you first thought.

Sporty Mazdas hit hot spot

MAZDA has introduced a new sporty Takuya special edition range for the summer featuring evocative styling and high-levels of standard equipment.

The name 'Takuya' – pronounced 'tah-koy-yah' – is taken from the Japanese for 'forerunner' or 'pioneer'. Available in Mazda showrooms across the UK from last week, the new variants are available in the Mazda2, Mazda3 and Mazda6 model line-ups and offer added value.

The generously equipped new Takuya models incorporate features normally only available with top-of-the-range derivatives, including exterior sports styling, larger alloy wheels, a Bluetooth system and a sports interior.

Priced from £11,915, the 1.3-litre Mazda2 five-door Takuya is the entry point into the special edition range. It boasts 16-inch alloy wheels, a sports styling kit (incorporating spoiler, sports bumpers and side skirts) and front fog lights. The interior benefits from black sports trim, trip computer, leather steering wheel and gear knob, steering wheel remote audio controls and a Parrot Bluetooth hands-free kit.

Feisty (84bhp) yet frugal, the hatchback produces just 125g/km CO2 and returns 54.3mpg, yet is one of the finest handling and fun to drive superminis on sale in the UK.

The 102bhp 1.6-litre Mazda3 five-door Takuya boasts a leather steering wheel and shift knob, automatic dual-zone climate control aircon, black sports interior trim, sports seats, an integrated Bluetooth system, LED lights, a six-disc CD changer and rain-sensing wipers. Priced from £15,780, it returns a combined fuel economy figure of 44.8mpg and a low-for-class 149g/km CO2 emissions.

Mazda6 buyers will find Takuya special edition models in three different guises: 2.0-litre five-door (£19,845), 2.2D 161bhp five-door (£20,945) and 2.2D 161bhp Estate (£21,595). All three variants benefit from the fitment of 18-inch alloy wheels, dusk-sensing headlights, alloy pedal set, half-leather heated seats and auto-dimming rear view mirror.

Wait is over as Saab 9-5 arrives in showroom

THE wait is over for keen motorists in Cambridgeshire as Saab's most technically advanced car ever arrives at local dealership, Cambridge Saab, this week.

Marking the start of an exciting new era, the all new Saab 9-5, which is now available to order in Cambridgeshire, is defined and equipped by Saab as a top-of-the-line contender in the premium saloon sector and has already become a flagship model for the company.

To celebrate the launch, Cambridge Saab is offering you the chance to come and see the vehicle for the first time on July 8.

James Howarth, dealer principal from Cambridge Saab, comments: "The eagerly awaited arrival of the new generation 9-5 is a momentous event in our history, and marks the dawn of a new and exciting era of independent Saab production."

"I would like to invite

The most advanced yet: The all-new Saab 9-5.

everyone to come down to the dealership on July 8 for their chance to see the new 9-5 and to experience the full extent of its powerful performance by booking a test drive."

The Saab 9-5 hosts a wide range of high-tech features to enhance the driving experience, including an aircraft inspired head-up information display (HUD), XWD, DriveSense, Bi-Xenon smart beam headlamps, hard disc satellite navigation system and rear seat entertainment.

In addition to owning a very well-equipped vehicle, customers will gain a driving experience that matches the excitement of Saab's bold Scandinavian design language.

Entering the UK market priced at just £26,495 OTR for the 2.0TID 160PS Vector SE model, the vehicle is a highly competitive proposition for buyers in the premium saloon sector.

For more information about the 9-5, or to book a test drive, check the website www.cambridgesaab.co.uk, or visit Cambridge Saab, 59-61 High Street, Harston, Cambridgeshire, CB22 7PZ.

The Nissan Juke: On sale at the end of September priced from £12,795.

New Mondeo is 'safest, smartest and greenest'

FORD of Europe will debut its stylish and technologically advanced new Mondeo at the 2010 Moscow International Automobile Salon next month.

The new model – in UK dealerships in October – features a restyled exterior and uprated interior, new high-efficiency Ford EcoBoost petrol and TDCi diesel powertrains, plus a host of new driver comfort and convenience features and safety technologies.

The first official preview images show that, following similar updates to the Ford S-MAX and Galaxy models earlier this year, the new Mondeo is the latest to benefit from the continuing evolution of Ford kinetic design.

"The Ford Mondeo is already a very strong package and, with the significant design changes and in particular the comprehensive array of new technologies we are introducing, we have no doubt that the new model will strengthen Mondeo's position as the flagship Ford model in our European line-up," said John Fleming, Ford of Europe chairman and CEO.

"This is the smartest, safest, most environmentally friendly and best quality Mondeo we have ever launched."

Key exterior changes include distinctive new grilles featuring a bolder lower trapezoid and a slim, stylish opening above, plus an enhanced bonnet profile. New front bumpers include LED daytime running lights, and redesigned rear lights also employ LED technology.

The interior is also upgraded and features a new flow-through centre console design, revised door treatment featuring flush and integrated door release handles, and a new central overhead console with ambient lighting.

New features include the introduction of LED courtesy lights and a new satellite navigation system and a 265-watt, eight-channel amplifier unit, all-new speaker system and large, 17-litre subwoofer.

The launch of the new Mondeo will see the first application of a higher performance 240PS version of the efficient 2.0-litre Ford EcoBoost turbocharged petrol engine. This will be complemented by the existing 203PS version of this engine launched in the Mondeo, the new S-MAX and the new Galaxy earlier this year.

While the new 240PS engine provides extra performance, average CO2 emissions are targeted to be just 179g/km, the same as the 203PS unit, regardless of bodystyle.

Another first for the new Mondeo is the introduction of the comprehensively revised 2.2-litre Ford Duratorq TDCi engine, which boasts a 12 per cent power increase to 200PS, making it the most powerful Duratorq diesel engine to date.

Driver assistance features, many of which are appearing for the first time in a Ford model, include Lane Departure Warning, Driver Alert and Auto High Beam.

Further details, including prices, are expected closer to the launch.

The new Ford Mondeo: Restyled and revamped to meet sector's increasingly high demands.

Juke is on song

NISSAN'S new Juke crossover is certainly priced to sell – it goes on sale in Britain at the end of September and will cost from £12,795 to £15,695, depending on model.

The Juke can be ordered now, with a 1.6-litre petrol or 1.5-litre diesel engine, and the firm describes it as "a small SUV with the genes of a sports car". But at those prices, and going by larger sibling the Qashqai's success, it will do a roaring trade in the supermini sector.

Leon Cupra R: The greenest ultra-hot hatch you'll find

JUST weeks after Seat launched its most economical Leon to date in the shape of the latest Ecomotive the stylish Spanish brand is teeing up the showroom debut of its most potent Leon yet: the awesome Cupra R.

While the green-themed new Ecomotive with its road tax-busting CO2 rating of just 99g/km is all about economy and environmental responsibility, the 265PS Cupra R is, undeniably, aimed at ultra-hot hatch enthusiasts with high octane fuel coursing through their veins.

Storming into UK showrooms now, and due to face the glare of the nation's motoring media at a launch event in the next few days, the latest Leon is nothing less than the most powerful SEAT yet offered for sale in the brand's 25-year UK history.

That 265PS power peak is the product of a tuned 2.0-litre, four cylinder turbocharged petrol engine - revised by the engineers at SEAT's state-of-the-art Technical Centre in Martorell to make it more potent, even, than the current Leon Cupra which is good for a still impressive 240PS from its 2.0-

The 16V petrol engine features a new, high-pressure fuel pump injector to satisfy the greater performance demands and allow it to meet strict EU5 emissions standards while revisions to the electronic engine management system, plus increased maximum turbo pressure (1.9 bar at max output and 2.2 bar for the 240PS 2.0-litre TSI in Leon Cupra) complete the powerplant changes beneath the SEAT's svelte 'clamshell' bonnet.

The torque generated by the new Cupra R's refined and willing engine is, arguably, even more impressive than its power peak. No less than 350Nm is on offer at just 2,500 rpm - that's a full 50 Nm more than the already muscular Leon Cupra.

The result? Near-supercar levels of acceleration and performance. The benchmark 0-62mph dash is dispatched in only 6.2 seconds while, where legal, Leon Cupra R drivers can thence press onward to a top speed of 155mph. Impressive stuff.

As impressive, perhaps, is the new Leon's frugality. Combined economy of 34.9mpg and CO2 limited to just 190g/km make the newcomer among the greenest ultra-hot hatches around. Not green enough to qualify for the brand's Ecomotive badge, of course, but markedly more environmentally responsible than a number of rivals which have CO2 emissions of 220g/km and above.

CARPENTER/HANDYPERSON

A major horse racing team in Newmarket is seeking to recruit a good quality candidate to join its facilities team in the position of Carpenter/Handyperson.

Reporting to the Facilities Manager, you will be an experienced Carpenter whose duties will include the repair and maintenance of estate buildings and facilities, woodwork repairs, alterations to existing buildings and structures as well as minor new works. To be successful, you will ideally be NVQ 3 qualified with five years post apprentice experience, be able to work independently but also as part of a small, established team, and have a desire to work to high standards. During the racing season you may be seconded to the estate maintenance team to assist with the upkeep and general presentation of the Company's facilities and buildings, either on site or at other sites. Complying with Health & Safety is paramount, so experience of the legislation relating to operating hazardous equipment, PPE and risk assessments etc is essential.

This is an excellent opportunity to join a major player in the racing industry in return for a competitive salary and attractive benefits package.

If you believe you have the relevant skills and background, please send your CV and a covering letter giving details of your current salary and notice period to Mrs S Branch, Godolphin Management Company Ltd, Snailwell Road, Newmarket, Suffolk, CB8 7YE.

Closing date for applications: Friday, 23 July 2010.

Local support for people with learning disabilities
 We are currently recruiting two part-time posts (each post is 17.5 hours per week, plus some evenings and weekends) in our Community Services Team based at our Fulbourn office. If you are a people person and would like to work with local families, we would like to hear from you.

Family Support Co-Ordinator
 Salary £9482 per annum

You will be responsible for co-ordinating our volunteer led Family Support Service for children and young people with learning disabilities (aged 0-19) in the Cambridge area. Your role will be to work closely with families wishing to use the service, to introduce one of our trained volunteers to each family and to monitor and review the support provided for families using this service.

Befriending Scheme Co-Ordinator
 Salary £9482 per annum

Our Befriending Scheme uses volunteers to provide the support young people (aged 13-25) with learning disabilities need to participate in activities of their choice, at home or out in the community. Your role will include the management of new referrals, the matching of volunteers and the monitoring and regular review of the support being provided to the individuals using this scheme.

We would also like to hear from applicants who may be interested in applying for both positions.

Closing date for both posts: 5pm, Monday 19 July 2010
Interviews will be held during week commencing 26 July 2010

 NPQH, FRSA
 For September 2010

The governing body is looking to appoint enthusiastic, dynamic, committed and forward looking colleagues in the following key roles:

Teacher of Science with a Chemistry bias
 MPS (+ possible TLR to be i/c BTEC Science)

Science Technician

(25 hours per week, term time only)
 Scale 3 £8.15 per hour

Manor Community College is "a satisfactory and improving college with good features" (Ofsted: June 2008). Our students, our staff and our warm, inclusive and supportive community are our best advert and we are very proud of the significant improvements in academic achievement and attainment over the last 3 years – results have doubled!

Manor is at an exciting stage in its development – currently pursuing Foundation Status and acquiring a Trust for September 2010. We recognise and celebrate the impact an excellent teacher makes and we would like you to join us if you have a passion and enthusiasm for teaching and have a belief that all students can achieve.

Successful applicants should possess excellent subject knowledge, have a presence in the classroom and, above all, enjoy working with young people. Previous experience in the technician role is desirable but not essential. Our students deserve the very best quality education. These posts offer excellent opportunities for career progression within a forward looking college and all necessary training will be provided.

Please telephone the Principal for an informal chat about the post/s or to arrange a visit.

Application forms can be obtained from Lucy Crebo, PA to the Principal and Clerk to the Governors, Manor Community College, Arbury Road, Cambridge, CB4 2JF. Goose blitz fires Burwell

GLEN Goosen and Grant Flower returned to Burwell's line-up with a bang as they got their revenge over Halstead at Mingay Park. Captain Mark Bissett was unhappy with his team's all-round display when they lost to the strugglers by seven wickets in May's reverse fixture. But they made amends with their first victory in three Gibbs Denley East Anglian Premier League games. And Goosen and Flower, who missed last weekend's defeat by Bury St Edmunds, were the star turns, along with wicketkeeper Paul Summerskill.

Goosen remained calm as Burwell slipped to 54 for 4, taking on the visiting attack with 13 boundaries and four sixes before he fell three runs short of a deserved century off 105 balls. Summerskill was similarly brutal, amassing 74 from 96 deliveries, and a late undefeated 26 from Bissett, took Burwell to 277 for 9. Halstead were in the hunt on 95 for 3 until Bissett removed danger man Amit Gupta for 68. Francois Bester collected 3 for 43 and Flower ripped through the innings with 5 for 36 from 14 deadly overs as Halstead were all out for 162.

Now that's a Ford fiesta!

RICHARD Ford posted a club record individual score of 180 not out as Worlington thrashed Sudbury II away by 207 runs to go top of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division Three.

Ford joined brother Graham at the crease with the latter already on 59, only to beat him to a century as they put together a huge third-wicket partnership of 248.

Graham Ford finally went for 110, while Richard Ford smashed 176 sixes as the visitors set a formidable target 359 for 3.

Sudbury never got close and were dismissed for 152 thanks to the efforts of Graham Downey and Paul Marston, who took 4 for 42 and 4 for 58 respectively.

Captain Daren Hayward said: "Richard is a very creative batsman who's able to thrash the ball out of the park."

Skipper Andy Squire struck 58 as Mildenhall II claimed victory by three wickets at home to Coggeshall II. Stephen Ready took 3 for 36 and Jason Moore 3 for 59 as they restricted the visitors to 190 for 7 before Squire and Steve Grinling (51) helped their side to 192 for 7.

Lakenheath were handed victory by default after Clacton II conceded.

Matt Catley led by example as Exning won by 70 runs at Abberton to end a five-match losing streak in Division One.

David Atkinson set the visitors on their way with 49 before captain Catley struck an unbeaten 97, sharing a sixth-wicket stand of 81 with Ben Atkinson (36) before combining with Daniel Baigent (32) in a seventh-wicket partnership of 85 as they made 290 for 7. Craig Estlea claimed 4 for 51 as Abberton were bowled out for 220.

Mildenhall went down by eight wickets in their trip to top-flight leaders Coggeshall, being sent packing for 178 before the hosts reached 180 for 2.

David Monk hit 96 as Exning II clinched an 83-run success at home to table-topping Stowmarket in Division Four.

Ed Compton added 46 and skipper Peter Woods 37 as the hosts made 228 for 9 before Freddie Steele took 3 for 20 in his first game of the season to help dismiss Stowmarket for 145.

Tuddenham hammered fellow strugglers Witham II by 122 runs in Division Five, reaching 294 for 5 before bowling out the basement boys for 159.

TUCKER GARDNER CAMBS AND HUNTS PREMIER LEAGUE

STRUGGLING Fordham enjoyed a welcome victory over Ramsey, who endured a torrid time with the bat. They could muster only 73 all out, a total that Fordham quickly overhauled, reaching 74 for the loss of two wickets.

Speedway

MILDENHALL stay joint-second in the National League, easing to a comfortable 55-40 victory over strugglers Isle of Wight.

The Fen Tigers were rarely troubled, rattling up a 14-point lead by the interval.

The Islanders hit back with a couple of heat advantages that sliced the margin to nine points but the hosts quickly restored the gap.

Guest Jon Armstrong had the West Row fans on the edge of their seats, following his devastatingly quick opener with a thrilling tussle against Ben Hopwood five races later.

Hopwood, on a tactical ride, nudged aside Armstrong out of the start but the Dudley racer soon lined up his bike on the fastest line.

He rounded Dean Felton on the next lap and then set about Hopwood, riding a high line out of turn four and storming under the Islander down the back straight into the last lap for a breathtaking victory. He rounded off his night with a superb team-riding 5-1 with skipper Barrie Evans in heat 13.

Luke Priest produced his best so far – swooping around Ben Johnson in heat three, teaming up with Joe Jacobs for a heat five maximum and showing bags of aggression to come out ahead in a tight first turn in his fourth.

Tigers are not in league action again until July 18 when they travel to Buxton Hitmen.

Mildenhall – Evans 13+1 (5 rides), Priest 11+1 (5), Armstrong 11 (4), Rayson 7+1 (4), Laurence 5+2 (4), Wright 4+1 (4), Jacobs 4 (4). Isle of Wight – Warwick 13+ (6 rides), Hopwood 12 (6), Felton 5+2 (5), Hill 4 (4), Johnson 3+1 (5), Scarborough 3 (4).

Ray Mascall admitted his frustration in the delay of negotiations with two parties and the collapse of a third as he seeks to seal a deal with a new owner. Mildenhall's outgoing promoter had hinted last week that the club would be in new hands for tomorrow's home fixture against strugglers Isle of Wight (5pm).

But the potential buyers, one of which is believed to be West Row Stadium owner Dave Coventry, appear to be far from advanced stages of discussion.

Holley gets revenge

Jogger so close to smashing 10k record

Paul Holley: Reversed placings of Heath Run to win the Newmarket 10k

PAUL Holley managed to overturn the result of the recent Heath Run when he conquered searing heat to beat more than 100 competitors in the fourth running of the Stetchworth-based Newmarket 10k race.

The Newmarket Joggers ace struck out from the start and got his own back on Heath Run winner Andrew Mynott (Saffron Striders), beating him by more than a minute.

More importantly, the elite jogger, who was 16th in the Edinburgh Marathon, finished in 34min 14sec – just 0.03sec outside the course record.

While the men's race was cut and dried, the women's event proved to be a tight affair. Although Debbie Cattermole (Colchester Harriers) crossed the line first in 44.55, runner-up Marion McCall (Thetford) and Mary Narey (Stowmarket Striders) were only separated by five seconds, finishing in 45.22 and 45.27 respectively.

Saffron Striders won the men's team event while Stowmarket Striders won the women's equivalent.

Newmarket Joggers fielded a team of 11 for their club race and all put in superb performances on what is a notoriously testing course.

Nick Conway, who also ran his first marathon in Edinburgh, was 17th in 42.24 while David Cheese, who ran a 5k on the Thursday, finished in 44.38 to win the male veteran 60 age group.

Nat Allen was the first female finisher for Joggers, a strong uphill finish earning a time of 49.28 which was three minutes faster than her time last year, while Sue Stoten trimmed a minute off her 2009 time while Josh Lida also made an improvement.

Yes, there's only one Keano...

Roy mania: Ipswich boss Roy Keane is surrounded by autograph hunters before their game at Newmarket on Tuesday. SP0661649

ROY Keane proved a big attraction at Newmarket on Tuesday – but he let his Ipswich side do the talking on the pitch.

The Blues boss was at the Town Ground to watch a strong Blues squad take on the Jockeys in their first pre-season game.

And he must have left satisfied with a 9-1 win, Pablo Counago scoring a second-half hat-trick in 10 minutes while Argentine winger Luciano Civelli made his comeback after 16 months on the sidelines with a serious knee injury.

Jon Olive scored for Newmarket, whose build-up to the Ridgeons League campaign continues on Tuesday at home to Cambridge City.

The "alternative World Cup" – a five-a-side tournament organised by Newmarket Town – will be staged at the Town Ground on Sunday.

Organiser Howard Jones hopes to get 32 teams involved – the same number as the 2010 finals in South Africa – with the sides allocated the name of a competing country.

Further details can be obtained from Jones on 01359 270733 or 07909 965211

■ John Sands has been snapped up by

Cambridge City after signing from Mildenhall in a £250 move.

The 23-year-old striker was in the youth ranks at Cambridge United before spells with Ely and Kershaw League sides Lakenheath and Fordham.

He joined Mildenhall three years ago and has been a prolific striker in the Ridgeons League ever since.

Mildenhall continue their pre-season build-up at East Harling on Friday and then are at home to Diss on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Rob-bed! Huff loses third place

ROB Huff's delight at maintaining his World Touring Car Championship title bid with third place in Portugal was wrecked in the stewards room.

The Red Lodge driver suffered a frustrating run in the first race, suffering a puncture which dropped him from fourth to 18th behind winner Tiego Monteiro, before bouncing back in race two, where he was third after starting 18th on the grid.

However, the Chevrolet driver was demoted by the stewards, who investigated two incidents involving Huff and Augustus Farfus, one in each race.

After reviewing tapes and listening to the drivers, they decided to reprimand Huff over the first but imposed a 30 sec penalty for the second, which dropped him back to 15th place in a race won by defending champion Gabrielle Tarquini.

It means he is now 60 points adrift of team-mate Yvan Muller overall heading into the next round at Brands Hatch on July 18.

'Freak' injury KO's Goldie's Euro bid

OLYMPIC finalist Goldie Sayers has been ruled out of this month's European Championships because of a 'freak' hip injury.

Sayers picked up the injury at the Aviva National Championships and European Trials last weekend, where she won an historic eighth consecutive title.

The Newmarket-born thrower, who finished fourth in the Olympic final in Beijing despite throwing a British record, said: "I am absolutely gutted to be missing Barcelona. "It was a completely freak injury that I sustained on my second throw in Birmingham. "Training had been going so well until this point and I really thought I could challenge for a medal at the Europeans.

"But I can't dwell on what has happened. Instead I will continue training and working whilst I'm in rehab with the aim of coming back for the Commonwealth Games in Delhi in October."

The 27-year-old also struggled with injury last year, recovering from a partial stress fracture of the back to compete in the World Championships in Berlin, where she failed to reach the final.

Dugdale stars in oarsome battle

FRECKENHAM'S Lawrence Dugdale featured in The King's School Ely four which went down to a gallant defeat in the quadruple sculls at the Henley Royal Regatta.

They were pipped by half a length by a crew from York City Rowing Club, who got up late in the 7½-minute race to win what some observers felt was one of the best races seen at the regatta.

The Spirit's willing!

'Special' filly in big-race mission

STAFF at trainer Jeremy Noseda's Shalfleet base are all dressed up and ready to hit Newmarket's July Course tomorrow (Friday) as their stable star Fleeting Spirit attempts to become the first horse to win back-to-back Darley July Cups since Right Boy in 1959.

The flying filly scorched to a dazzling victory in the £400,000 Group 1 sprint at the Champagne Lanson July Festival 12 months ago and belief is growing that she can put on a repeat performance.

She returned to action for 2010 with a satisfactory fourth-placed finish in the Group 1 Golden Jubilee Stakes at Royal Ascot and Noseda expects Fleeting Spirit to significantly improve for that run.

Noseda said: "I was delighted with her run at Ascot. Touch wood, if all goes to plan I think she will improve by 5 to 7lbs, which would see her be competitive."

Fleeting Spirit's groom Matthew Harvey said: "She knows she is pretty special.

"She has a tremendous amount of self-confidence – she has got that attitude that a lot of the good horses

The Fleet's in town: Fleeting Spirit and her stable groom Matthew Harvey and Shalfleet's Jenny Howson get in the mood for the Darley July Cup. CP have. She is a really classy filly with a high cruising speed and an electric turn of foot. If she were to win again this year it would be tremendously satisfying. I'm fairly confident she will put up a bold display." The only doubts surrounding the filly concerned her jockey. Tom Queally, her race-winning partner last year, and champion jockey Ryan Moore were in the mix, but Noseda has booked Frankie Dettori, who became available after Godolphin withdrew Denman last week. Noseda added: "She did her last piece of work on Monday. I was pleased with how it went and, fingers crossed, she comes out of it in good order."

Ranked against Fleeting Spirit are the likes of Starspangledbanner, Equiano, Kingsgate Native, Meezan, Showcasing, Society Rock and Kinsale King.

■ Friday's fashion focus is on the best dressed couple with an amazing cruise awaiting the winners.

Any smartly-dressed couple can enter for free at the Fashion at the Festival marquee, with the first prize a luxury three week cruise from Southampton to San Francisco, courtesy of Premier Travel, including the daylight navigation of the Panama Canal and stops in exotic locations such as Madeira, St Lucia and Acapulco.

Tickets are still available for all three enclosures on Friday, the final day of the three-day Festival. Premier Enclosure £35 per day and Grandstand & Paddock £22 per day with generous concessions at the gate (subject to availability) for pensioners, NUS card holders and anyone aged 18-24. The Garden Enclosure is also open on all three days, priced at £8 per day. Under 18's are admitted free to all three enclosures.

■ Officials at Newmarket have announced that 32Red will sponsor three key races on the final day of the July Festival – the opening race the 32Red Casino Handicap, the 32Red.com Superlative Stakes and the 32Red Trophy, formerly the Bunbury Cup.
